AMERICAN SHIP IS TORPEDOED

Captain and Two Seamen Lose Their Lives.

GERMAN SUBMARINES ACTIVE

Oil Tank Steamer Gulfight Is Damaged Off the Scilly Islands While En Route From Port Arthur, Tex., for Rouen, France.

London, May 3.—The American oil tank steamer Gulfight, which sailed from Port Arthur, Tex., April 10, for Rouen, France, was torpedoed at noon Saturday off the Scilly islands, according to a dispatch received by the Central News agency.

The captain of the Gulfight, according to the same advices, died of heart failure as a result of shock. Two seamen jumped overboard and were drowned. The other members of the crew were taken off by a patrol boat and landed. The vessel was towed into Crowsound and beached.

The Gulfight was a steel vessel of 3,202 tons net and was built at Camden, N. J., in 1914. It was owned by the Gulf Refining company of Port Arthur, Tex. The vessel was 383 feet long, 51 feet beam and 3 feet deep. She was equipped with wireless apparatus.

CAPTAIN GUNTHER IS DEAD

Loses His Life When Tank Vessel Is Torpedoed.

Boston, May 3.—The captain of the tank steamer Gulfight, who lost his life when his vessel was torpedoed off the Scilly islands, was Alfred Gunther of New York, the first mate is Ralph Smith of Wakefield and several members of the crew are from New England, according to information obtained from relatives.

Captain Gunther was commander of the steamship Oklahoma, which went down in a gale in January, 1914, off the New Jersey coast. With several members of the crew he escaped in a boat and was picked up eventually by another steamer.

Towed to the Scilly Islands.

Port Arthur, Tex., May 3.—The American steamer Gulfight, torpedoed by a German submarine Saturday, has been towed to the Scilly islands. This information was received here in a cablegram to George F. Caber, general manager of the Gulf Refining company, owners of the steamer, from First Officer Smith of the Gulfight.

GAS SHELLS ARE DEADLY

German Infantry Suffer From Their Own Artillery Fire.

London, May 3.—That the Germans used asphyxiating gases, not only on the first day of the battle of Ypres, but repeatedly after, and that many of their infantry were affected and unable to join in the charges is declared by the British "eyewitness" in his story of the latest stages of the battle.

The turning point in the battle, he says, came on the afternoon of April 26, when, after the Germans had delivered a number of fierce assaults and had pierced the allied lines near Broodseinde, a strong combined counter attack was carried out by the front, from Steenstraete to St. Julien. This caused a definite check to the German advance, relieved the pressure and gained a certain amount of ground.

DERNBURG FLEW BY PRESS

German Newspapers Criticize Former Colonial Secretary.

London, May 3.—Dr. Bernhard Dernburg's letter read at a mass meeting in Portland, Me., April 17, in which the former colonial secretary said that Germany would evacuate the occupied portions of France and Belgium only on condition that the seas be freed and that Germany be given freedom to expand beyond her frontier in Europe, has caused considerable discussion in the German newspapers, says a dispatch from Amsterdam to Reuter's Telegram company.

The Post of Berlin says the letter supplies a "full and final proof of Dr. Dernburg's incapacity as a statesman" and the newspaper characterizes his remarks as a "fine piece of political foolery."

French Dead in Front of Trenches After an Unsuccessful Charge

This remarkable photograph of a front scene was recently taken after the French were defeated in a charge in northern France on a position of the Germans. It shows the dead French in front of the first line of trenches in which the soldiers who escaped have taken refuge.

The French had worked their way to the trench in which they are seen, a front trench without breastworks. From that they charged on the German position. The fire was too hot for them and they had to fall back. Several men failed to reach the protection of the trench and they fell, some of them within a few feet. The photograph was taken before the firing had ceased so the French might reach out for their dead and wounded.

KAISER INTENDS START SOMETHING

(By United Press)

Washington, May 3.—The president arrived this morning from a week end visit to his daughter, and was informed of the torpedoing of the American vessel Gulfight off Scilly islands, supposedly by a German submarine, but he refused to comment on the matter. Officials are generally silent on the matter but it is admitted as most serious from an American standpoint, much more so that the sinking of the William Frye by the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, as the latter boat saved the lives on board the Frye, while three lives were lost aboard the Gulfight. The Eitel probably erred and admitted the wrong, but the submarine crew torpedoing the Gulfight are unable to plead anything but an error due to gross carelessness. Thrasher, the American killed aboard the British ship Falaba, which was torpedoed while sailing under the British flag.

The warning sounded by the German embassy advertising in the newspapers of the United States on Saturday is regarded as an indication that the Kaiser has intentions of starting something.

OFFICERS URGE PROHIBITION

Naval Men Say Prosperity Demoralizes Workers.

London, May 3.—The serious effect that drink is having on the repairs to the warship and transport services and in the output of munitions is disclosed in reports from firms and officers throughout the country, which were published in the form of a white paper.

From Vice Admiral Sir John R. Jellicoe, commander-in-chief of the home fleets, down, the officers of the navy are of the opinion that short hours worked by the men in private yards is due to drink. They describe conditions as deplorable and urge on the government the necessity of adoption of the total prohibition of alcoholic drinks or restrictions on the sale of them.

The slackness of the men, it is alleged, is due to the fact that they are earning more money than usual and that, while they have any to spend, they will not work.

Washington, May 3.—Thirty food dealers here must face trial for conspiring to raise prices at the outbreak of the war. SAYS BUSINESS IS IMPROVING Federal Reserve Board Issues Optimistic Report.

RETAIL TRADE FLOURISHES

Wheat Acreage in the Northwest is the Largest These States Have Ever Seen and Other Cereals Show a Corresponding Increase.

Washington, May 3.—General improvement in business conditions with "returning confidence" is announced in the federal reserve board's digest of reports of agents in the twelve reserve districts into which the country is divided. Development of a strong, active securities market on the New York Stock exchange and considerable activity in certain industries in connection with the war are pointed out.

The outlook in the Minneapolis district is said to favor improvement in all business lines that are below normal or dependent on agriculture. Retail trade is active, though below normal in various lines. Copper mines in Michigan are working full time. Wheat acreage is the largest the states in this district have ever seen and other cereals show corresponding increases.

Abundant crops are promised in the Kansas City district, with agricultural and horticultural conditions almost perfect. Supply of loaned funds far exceeds the demand in practically all sections.

The Chicago district report shows improvement, although not very pronounced outside of those lines profiting by war orders. Money conditions are said to be easy and there are indications of arbitration and speedy ending of the building trades troubles at Chicago.

Sales Show Improvement.

In the St. Louis district demand for general merchandise has improved. While below normal the sales and collections for the first quarter of the year show improvement over the previous quarter and a year ago.

From the New York district general improvement, with some optimism, is reported. Prices of dry goods, textiles and other commodities have quite generally advanced since April 1 "as a result of the reflection of better demand."

Slight improvement is noted in the Boston district. There business directly affected by the war is in much better condition than trade not so benefited. Commercial paper in hands of brokers is scanty and demand for money in the larger centers is light.

"Some improvement in the last few months" is reported from the Philadelphia district. Coal, lumber, shipyards, sole and upper leather industries have improved. Cotton goods manufacture is fairly satisfactory, wool quite and cement business below normal.

Business conditions are said to have improved materially in the Cleveland district. The metal industry has been stimulated by foreign orders. Clothing manufacturers report increasing medium grades business. Funds for investment are plentiful. The coal trade still is reported unsatisfactory because of the labor, legislative and trade conditions.

DAMAGE BIG GERMAN GUN

French Believe Large Cannon Is Put Out of Action.

Paris, May 3.—The official report given out by the French war department says that it is believed that the German gun which has twice bombarded Dunkirk from a range of twenty-three and one-half miles has been put out of action.

It also announces the bombardment by the French of one of the German forts at Metz, the Lorraine capital.

Protecting the Bad Hammock.

Owing to the size and weight of a bad hammock it is generally left outside in all kinds of weather. A good plan is to fasten two awning pulleys to the ceiling of the porch over the hammock so that a rope may be run through them; then attach hooks to the ends of the rope for hooking into the lower part of the hammock. The hammock can then be pulled up close to the ceiling when not in use so that it will be out of the sun and rain.

pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work.

Washington Will Probe Sinking of American Steamer.

Washington, May 3.—Press reports of the torpedoing of the American steamer Gulfight and the loss of her captain and some members of the crew created a stir in official circles here, where the seriousness of the occurrence was everywhere admitted.

In the absence of President Wilson officials made no comment as to the probable action of the United States government, beyond saying that a thorough inquiry as to the manner of the torpedoing and the responsibility for it would first be required before a decision could be reached as to the kind of representations to be made.

If first reports are borne out the attack on the Gulfight constitutes the first case of an American ship struck by a torpedo with the consequent loss of lives. Two American vessels have been sunk by mines, the Evelyn and Greenbrier, the responsibility for which never has been fixed, and one American, Leon C. Thresher, was drowned when the British ship Fal-aba was torpedoed.

The course of the United States in-the case of the Gulfight is not likely to be determined for several days;
some time probably will be required to get the facts.

Miss Rose Judd, of Brainerd, Visiting There Sends Picture of Destitution Prevailing

Portland, Oregon, can provide employment for its own people, but when it is submerged by a rush, destitution prevails among some because there is not enough work for all. A picture sent the Brainerd Dispatch from Portland, by Miss Rose Judd, of Brainerd, shows a family evicted from their home.

Hundreds of people are stranded, sleep out of doors and on the sidewalks with their clothes and furniture. It is a pitiful sight.

Entertain for Guest

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Allen entertained at their home, 2807 Pacific avenue, Tacoma, Wash., in honor of their niece, Miss Rosemarie Judd, of Brainerd, who is at present visiting them. Covers were laid for eight girls. Great clusters of American Beauty roses artistically arranged formed the table decorations. Pretty, hand painted place cards marked the covers for Miss Catherine Hoffman, Miss Virginia Walker, Miss Jean Smith, Miss Helen Wolcott, Miss Ellaline Brown, Miss Agnes Burkhardt, Miss Rosemarie Judd and Miss Thelma Allen.

The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the drawing room, and music room with roses and spring flowers.

The evening pleasure was augmented by a group of piano selections by Miss Rosemarie Judd and her friends. A dainty luncheon was served.—Tacoma Paper.

WORLD'S FASHION NEWS

Delicate, Diaphanous, Rainbow-Hued Blouses Looking Like Butterflies in Gardens

Delicate, diaphanous, rainbow-hued, the dainty new blouses look like the butterflies that flutter in the summer gardens.

The sleeves are the shortest or the longest, as suits the fancy, and the jabots and frills that were popular before the advent of the low-necked and sailor-collared waists, are back again. Lace, net, and sheer organdie are made into the most alluring of collars—some so big that they have to be turned down to be worn.

The blouse forms a most intimate part of the tailored suit; indeed the collar and cuffs of the blouse often do double duty as the collar and cuffs of the suit.

Covert continues to be the most popular of the Spring fabrics, and the covert street suit is much in evidence on Michigan Boulevard and Fifth avenue. There is a marked tendency to the tan and slate-colored shades to be worn with puffy-colored or sand-colored blouses, and these vie for favor with the black and white combinations and the shepherd plaids.

The smart new coat dress, advocated earlier in the season by the Fashion Art League of America, is proving its worth by its popularity. It has been immediately adopted by the busy American woman who has long felt the need for a gown that would meet the demands of shopping, traveling, luncheon, club or matinee.

With the smart couturiers showing skirts twelve yards in width, the full skirt may be said to have been accepted without any further resistance. Many of the most charming effects are achieved by the use of accordion pleating.

The normal and low waist line continue to distinguish the newest models, and the most captivating effects are obtained by contrasting the snugly fitted bodices with the soft billows of the full skirts.

One of the most wearable frocks of the season is of Hague blue pongee combined with white mousseline. There are two ruffles of the blue tussor accordion pleated mousseline. The sleeves, also of the pleated mousseline, are full and gathered into a narrow band at the wrist. The little round neck—the very acme of simplicity—is finished with a narrow bias band. The normal waist line is suggested by the black moire sash knotted in the back.

Tussor and other weaves of shantung and pongee are in great demand with the leading couturiers, and are being used in all colors for many of the summer costumes. The majority of the modistes seem to prefer the natural shantung coloring, but others most successfully use the odd, subtle shades.—From H. W. Gossard Corset Co., courtesy H. F. Michael Co.

ENGINEMEN MAY ASK PROBE

Decision of Arbitration Board Will Be Put Up to Congress.

Chicago, May 2.—Delegates representing the railroad engineers and firemen whose wages for the next year were fixed by an arbitration board which made its award last week will seek to have a congressional investigation of the decision of the board.

A resolution was discussed at a meeting of 125 delegates representing the men, asking congress to undertake an inquiry into the appointment of Charles Nagel as the neutral member of the board.

In the final week of the proceedings of the board the representatives of the men protested that Nagel, through acting as a trustee of the Bush estate of St. Louis, was more interested in the financial success of the railroads than of the men and accused him of prejudice.

AMERICA PROFITS BY WAR IN EUROPE

Farmers and Manufacturers Benefited by Higher Prices.

WE WON'T STOP EXPORTS.

International Laws Give United States the Right to Sell Anything She Has to Offer to Whomever Can Buy—Perkins to Attempt to Hold Progressive Party Together.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, May 3.—[Special.]—Is the United States making profits out of the war in Europe? That question has begun to agitate the minds of quite a number of well meaning persons who are bringing pressure to bear on the administration to stop all exports to belligerent nations, not only munitions of war, but food supplies as well.

They claim that it will bring about a speedy end to hostilities. Of course, these people do not realize that other foreign countries having food supplies will send their goods to the fighting nations, but it is assumed that the United States is now the granary of food as well as the manufactory of war munitions. It is true that if the export of arms and ammunition should cease the allies would soon be in a bad way for military supplies.

Profits For the Farmer.

Beyond question, the farmer is making money out of the war. James Hughes, a former wheat dealer of Minneapolis, Minn., and who understands that crop in all its ramifications, says that the American farmer is making a rich harvest out of the war. He is selling all his products at a higher figure than ever before. He is increasing his acreage of food producing crops and if the war continues will receive higher prices than ever before and have a greater supply than heretofore. It is certain that the farmer is profiting by the war.

War Materials.

Secretary Bryan has demonstrated to his own satisfaction and to the satisfaction of many other persons versed in international law that in allowing munitions of war to be purchased in this country this government is maintaining the utmost neutrality. The right of belligerents to purchase supplies wherever they can get them has generally been acknowledged, and it is plain that the United States government is not going to shut off the supplies which are highly profitable to those who produce the war necessities.

Will Not Be Groomed.

John G. Capers of South Carolina was one of the members of the Republican national committee who stood by Roosevelt during the long contest over delegates in 1912. For that reason when he says that "Roosevelt will not allow any of his friends to groom him for the Republican nomination in 1916" it may be that he knows something of the colonel's mind. Still it is characteristic of Roosevelt that he does his own "grooming." While it is believed that he allowed his friends to push him into the race in 1912, there is good reason for believing that he was mighty anxious to be president again and did a little pushing on his own account.

"Can't Learn Anything."

Senator Chilton of West Virginia is a real progressive Democrat. He does not see any sign of Democratic recession at the present time. He was talking about the general improvement of conditions commercially when a man remarked that the sale of goods abroad on account of the war had been of some benefit.

"You old standpatters can't learn anything," he declared with some warmth. "You are always looking for the effect of some cause instead of looking for the cause of the effect. The truth is we have not had good times in this country since 1907."

Daniels' Defense.

Secretary Daniels believes in coming back with publicity about the navy, and he has met the charges about the inefficiency of the navy with a statement showing that it is better now than when he became secretary. And here is a fact: If it had not been for Daniels there would not be as many battleships under way as at present. The Democratic majority in the house for two years refused to keep up with the two battleship building program. This program Daniels restored. If he had been a "little navy man" he could have easily prevented the building of any battleships, for the majority in the house was much inclined not to construct any more ships.

The Most Cheering News.

Real Progressives, those who want to keep the third party together and try out a presidential contest once more, were much cheered by the report that George W. Perkins had sent a letter to certain friends advising that the Progressives stand together and keep the organization intact. As Perkins has done more substantial work in keeping the party together than any other man, particularly in the matter of furnishing snags of war, it caused quite a deal of rejoicing among the Progressives who are still hopeful of the future. At the same time the real fate of the party will be determined when Roosevelt speaks of its future.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"The Chocolate Soldier"

"The Chocolate Soldier," still a conquering hero in the vast army of light operas that assail the American and European theatres, will be the attraction at the Brainerd opera house on Tuesday evening, May 4. It is no idle boast to predict that the throng of admirers who come to greet him will be fully as great as in other cities, for the charming warrior never wears out his welcome.

The superb operatic mixture of Viennese melodies and Celtic wit and satir, with Bulgarian scenes, manners and customs forming a splendid background of romance, is the work of Oscar Straus, the composer, of Vienna, and Bernard Shaw, the Irish wit and playwright, from whose romantic tattle, "Arms and the Man," the libretto of "The Chocolate Soldier" is derived. It is chiefly the music which has given the opera its remarkable reputation. Such melodies as "My Hero," the waltz-refrain which is the dominant theme of the entrancing score, "The Letter Song," "That Would be Lovely," and "The Chocolate Soldier" are still fresh in the memories of thousands.

Elegance, richness and realism characterize every production made by Mr. Whitney, and "The Chocolate Soldier," as given this season is a superb example of Mr. Whitney's idea of an adequate production. One of the strongest features of the tour is the orchestra of picked musicians, many of whom are members of the original orchestra during the New York production of the opera, and under the leadership of Signor A. De Novellis.

The opera will be presented in the same excellent manner as that which characterized the production and cast in the larger cities.

"Peg O' My Heart"

"Peg O' My Heart" will be the attraction at the Brainerd opera house, Saturday, May 8. "Peg" is the daughter of an aristocratic English woman and a whole-hearted Irish Socialist father, who has been raised by her father in America, is sent to her dead mother's relatives to be educated. The relatives have undertaken the charge simply for the yearly income they derive and do not approve of "Peg" in any way whatever allowing their prejudice against their father to prevent them from seeing the goodness of character, though the finer points of her education have been neglected. "Peg" is made thoroughly miserable by her aunt and two cousins which after much hardships culminates in her conquering their dislike and at the same time ends with her winning a husband Jerry, an English nobleman and the fortune as well.

Oliver Morosco, the producer of "Peg O' My Heart" will send the New York-Chicago cast here directly after the San Francisco engagement with practically an all start cast.

CASUALTIES AMONG CANADIAN TROOPS

Nearly Six Thousand Killed, Wounded or Missing.

Ottawa, May 3.—Casualties among the Canadian contingent in the fighting at Ypres are reported to have been nearly 6,000. Of these 2,000 are reported missing, the missing being chiefly the Thirteenth and Fourteenth battalions of Montreal Highlanders, each 1,000 strong.

It is stated that 700 officers and men were killed and 3,000 wounded. The totals thus given would indicate that more than one-fourth of the 21,000 men in the division were put out of action.

The Canadian official witness reported the two battalions of Highlanders left behind after the fighting at St. Julien.

The line, the eyewitness said, rolled over the deserted village, but for several hours after the enemy had become master of the village sudden and persistent rifle fire showed they were not yet masters of the Canadian guard.

As Berlin reported 1,000 Canadian prisoners it is feared here that 1,000 of these rear guards were killed before exhaustion of ammunition compelled the detachment to surrender.

CASUALTIES AMONG CANADIAN TROOPS

Nearly Six Thousand Killed, Wounded or Missing.

Ottawa, May 3.—Casualties among the Canadian contingent in the fighting at Ypres are reported to have been nearly 6,000. Of these 2,000 are reported missing, the missing being chiefly the Thirteenth and Fourteenth battalions of Montreal Highlanders, each 1,000 strong.

It is stated that 700 officers and men were killed and 3,000 wounded. The totals thus given would indicate that more than one-fourth of the 21,000 men in the division were put out of action.

The Canadian official witness reported the two battalions of Highlanders left behind after the fighting at St. Julien.

The line, the eyewitness said, rolled over the deserted village, but for several hours after the enemy had become master of the village sudden and persistent rifle fire showed they were not yet masters of the Canadian guard.

As Berlin reported 1,000 Canadian prisoners it is feared here that 1,000 of these rear guards were killed before exhaustion of ammunition compelled the detachment to surrender.

With the French Army

With the French army, April 11, by mail to New York, April 28—Up over the hill we stumble through the darkness ahead of our guide, the captain of general staff. Suddenly the ridge ahead is sharply outlined against a brilliant light for on the other side. You clearly distinguish the outlines of a trooper coming towards us. That seems to be a cow in a patch to the right. There is another house and some out-buildings. Then the light dies out. It was a fuse, and illuminating bomb shot into the air by one side or the other to light up the landscape and prevent surprises. As you reach the top of the hill the roar of the cannon is much louder. The view is fine. Every few minutes great balls of fire suddenly appear suspended high over the trenches near you or takes on a very unreal appearance and you pinch yourself to see whether you are awake or dreaming.

Now you hear the pop of the rifles not a confused crackling without cease of intermission, but a pop-pop-pop-pop-pop. The gun lever has turned the track but a round or two, perhaps at a shadow which moved when the French fuses began to fall over there in his direction. The German fuse is shot into the air by a special gun like a revolver with a large barrel. The French goes up with a skyrocket and burns with a beautiful opalescent bluish light. The Germans light is more yellow.

At the foot of the hill you find yourself in a sunken road. And you are immediately glad that it is sunken. Suddenly there is a fuse light, you see everybody duck their heads as simultaneously you have ducked yours. It was over before you realized what it was. Before an instant you thought it was an angry bumblebee. You are getting close. One more turn to the right and you find yourself in a shallow trench, about waist deep. Your foot slips on the bottom of red mud and you think of your $1.25 gloves. Ruined perhaps. You make up your mind to be more careful; you will not soil the other glove. Foolish, foolish thought.

The trenches zig zag like a whole flock of Z's strung together getting deeper as you go along, the bullets come. You pass the outlines of a cross seen against a fuse light—the grave of a soldier at the end of a trench. You look and see several are buried there, partly in place by stakes and woven brush. These and the angry sip of bullets are not encouraging.

Suddenly a sharp bang right at your elbow acquaints you with the fact that you have arrived. A soldier has just fired and you are in the front trenches. The Germans are only 20 yards away and you can hear them pelting away at you. And soon you can tell the difference between the snap of the German mauser and the softer crack of the French lebel. The men wear a hood of waxed canvas over their heads and in the stillness broken only by the pop of the rifles they seem more like ghosts trying to kill others of their species. Both sides listen—listen anxiously to catch a whispered word that will tell when and where to throw the explosives.

The night is without a sound save for a muttered oath when someone slips in the mud and the noise of the rifles. It seems like a hunting party or as if you were behind the scenes at a theatrical performance. You feel quite safe. You have already forgotten the graves back there.

An Insinuation.

Speaks of Conditions Obtaining in the East, Business Said to be Improving

BUT NO BOOM ANTICIPATED

Business Revival Would not Give Democrats Success at Polls in Next Two Years

Congressman C. A. Lindbergh, of Little Falls, was in the city and in an interview spoke of business conditions, which he said were improving some. In Washington and Buffalo money had loosened up considerably for some purposes. He had seen prominent business men and they believed there would be a gradual improvement, but did not think there would be any boom.

The Chicago election which polled a heavy republican majority had in it many elements of a local nature, but the feeling seemed to exist throughout the country, said Congressman Lindbergh, that if the republicans went to the polls at this time, that they would unhesitatingly be successful.

At Buffalo, N. Y., he had heard expressions of dissatisfaction over the democratic supervision of affairs in Mexico, and in New York city too. It was chiefly leveled at the vacillating system in use.

The general idea appeared to be that the United States should enforce the Monroe doctrine and see that citizens of foreign countries were protected, or else abandon the doctrine and let every nation protect its own people.

Nation-wide prohibition will come up again in the house, said Mr. Lindbergh.

In referring to county matters Mr. Lindbergh commented on the dry victory in Brainerd. He said Staples was soon to vote on the proposition and many appeared to think that Staples would be carried by the dry forces.

The congressman's daughter, Miss Eva Lindbergh, is in quarantine with a teacher stricken with scarlet fever at Adeley. The two were visiting there and now occupy a cottage where the teacher friend of Miss Lindbergh is receiving the best of care. Miss Lindbergh, so far, has escaped the disease and considers the whole matter with some levity.

In June Congressman Lindbergh and his son, Charles, will make a canoe trip from the headwaters of the Mississippi to Little Falls. Mr. Lindbergh is in good health and retains all his old time enthusiasm.

While at A. M. Opsahl's offices he called attention to a photograph recently enlarged by Mr. Opsahl which he considered one of the best he had ever taken.

Wake Up and Paint Up

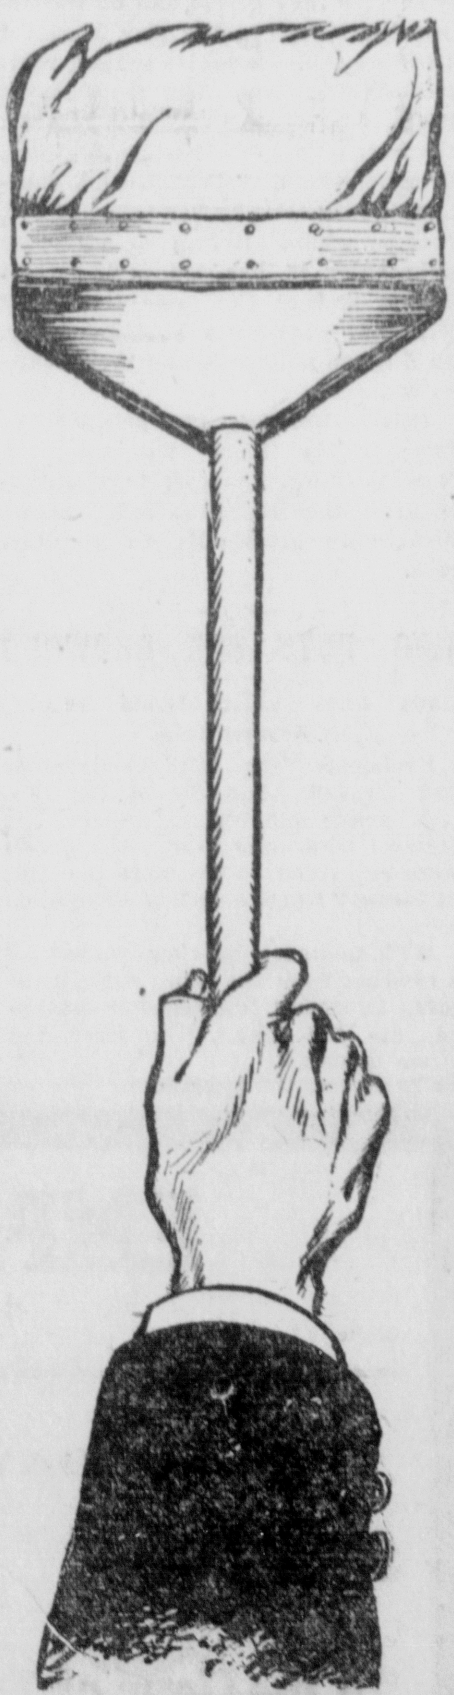

Don't overlook the fact that it is as important to paint up as it is to clean up while the renovating war is on hereabouts.

Paint is not only a cleanser and a beautifier, but it is a disinfectant as well. Also it preserves the life of buildings, fences, wagons, etc. Many a barn is leaky because Farmer John would not spend a few dollars and a few hours on the simple job of giving it the needed coats of paint from year to year.

Many a community has attracted new residents, new business and new reputation by having a bright, prosperous appearance. Well painted buildings and fences, cleanly kept streets and sidewalks and neatly trimmed grass plots do more to give the impression of prosperity than any other things we can suggest.

GET A MOVE ON, FOLKS. And where you consider the use of paint to be a useless expenditure use whitewash. It is cheap and clean and not unpleasant to the eye. Cleanliness never is annoying.

CLEAN UP AND KILL THE MOSQUITOES.

"Cleanup time is here, and so is mosquito time. Gird on your swatting armor and go forth. One moment, however, before you go—the female is more deadly than the male."

"Among mosquitoes the members of the 'fair' sex are fierce bloodsuckers that inject an irritating poison into our skins, and they may accompany the dose of toxin with a few fever germs. The males lead a comparatively tame existence, subsisting on the juices of plants and fruits." So says a member of the University of Wisconsin biology department.

"The speckle winged anopheles, the malarial mosquito," he continues, "hibernates during the winter in our attics, cellars and closets. The presence of many lakes, swamps and ponds often makes mosquitoes an intolerable pest."

"The female mosquito gorges herself with blood in order that the eggs may have abundant nourishment. She deposits her little egg raft on the surface of quiet water during the night, and it floats there until the larvae hatch. The larvae are the 'wigglers' or 'wiggletails' which are seen in ponds and rainwater barrels the world over. Though mosquito larvae always develop in water, they must breathe air and frequently come to the surface. After a few days the larva sheds its skin and becomes a big headed pupa, which rests at the surface until it splits up the back to allow the adult mosquito to emerge."

"The best way to get rid of mosquitoes is to destroy their breeding places. This not only means draining swamps and filling in ponds, but gathering up tomato cans, putting netting over horse troughs and rainwater barrels and watching the eave troughs. If it is impossible to get rid of standing water near your premises, oil placed on ponds will kill the larvae. Kerosene or any light fuel oil will serve for this purpose. About one ounce of oil will cover fifteen square feet."

THE TOWN BEAUTIFUL.

Movement to Distribute Flower Seeds Should Spread.

In Nebraska several public spirited communities have adopted the practice of distributing flower seeds to children in connection with the cleanup and paintup propaganda.

The children are instructed in the planting and care of flowers and also in the simple methods of digging gardens.

The practice is known as "the town beautiful movement." Many a yard after being cleaned up becomes a spot of real beauty when a flower garden decorates it. Even a back yard can be made a pleasure to the eye in this way.

GUSTAVE MENZ KILLS WIFE AND HIMSELF

Puts Five Bullets Into Her Head, Reloads Weapon and Shoots Himself at 1411 Oak Street

SHOOTING FOLLOWS QUARREL

Had Been Married in December, She Had Started Suit for a Divorce to be Heard Soon

Following a quarrel with his wife at 1411 Southeast Oak street where she was employed as a housekeeper, Gustave Menz, a well known citizen of Brainerd and formerly a farmer of the county, shot his wife and then turned the revolver on himself, killing himself instantly.

Five empty shells were found on the floor near by the pantry in which the bodies were wedged. The woman had fallen on her knees. On the floor lay Menz.

She is said to have five wounds in the head. One shot entered at the ear and plowed through her head. Another penetrated her neck. Menz had a bullet through the temple.

The closet measures about two by four feet and in this narrow space the two corpses were wedged.

No one was at the house at the time the murder and suicide occurred. Many on the street heard the shots and rushed for the home, arriving there after the tragedy had been consummated.

Mr. Menz was married a second time, early in December, the dead woman's former name being Mrs. Kathryn Hammer.

Mr. and Mrs. Menz, it is said, did not live in harmony and suit had been instituted by her for a separation. The court had ordered him to pay her $25 a month alimony until the case was heard and it was to come up at this term of the district court. He saw her attorneys recently and asked that a reconciliation be effected. Tenders were made to Mrs. Menz, but she refused. She said she wanted a settlement of $2,100, and Mr. Menz, it is said, offered her $500.

One of the girls in the house, Miss Anderson, said she spoke gently to her and that she thought he had come to give his wife her allowance. He took out a check-book to write out a check. Miss Anderson, believing there would be trouble, ran out of the house to the next door neighbors, Mrs. K. S. Bredenberg, 1421 Oak street, and the shots followed.

In conversations with friends Mrs. Menz had previously said she intended going out west to join her daughter, Mrs. Floyd Smith, of Centralia, Wash. Her mother lived in Michigan. These are the known relatives of the woman. She was about 45 years old. She had been recommended as a good housekeeper and people knowing her all spoke well of her.

Mr. Menz was reputed to be worth from $15,000 to $20,000. He owned two fine farms in Daggett Brook, had a house at 905 Bluff street north and owned considerable stock in the Brainerd Sash & Door factory. A daughter made her home with him, Miss Lena Menz. A married son residing in Brainerd is Herman F. Menz.

The deputy coroner and deputy sheriff were soon on the scene and the bodies were taken to the D. M. Clark & Co. morgue.

PIONEER VISITS SCENE

Chas. Hughes, Who Helped Dig the Canal at Fort Francis in 1878, Visits Former Scene

The International Falls Daily Journal says: Charles Hughes of Brainerd, was amongst us yesterday looking over the scenes of years ago when our now thriving and prosperous vicinity was a wilderness. Mr. Hughes is one of the pioneers of northern Minnesota and is among the few now living who visited this place during the time of digging the canal at Fort Frances during the years 1878 and 79. Fort Frances was then but a trading post for the Hudson Bay Co., now the largest corporation in the world, and the town lay on two old time trails leading from civilized country to the frozen north. International Falls was, of course, unheard of at that time and the place where the site of the city occupies was then a virgin forest. Scores of the old familiar landmarks which Mr. Hughes expected to again see were not within recognition to him yesterday when he went over the spots with a number of the pioneers of Fort Frances, and like every other one of the first settlers of the Rainy river country who have returned within recent years to view the scenes of early days, he was both disappointed and pleased to see the startling changes which have occurred.

FUR COATS AND WOOLEN MITTENS

Ear Laps, Overshoes, Steam Heat in Bleachers in Demand Yesterday

PRACTICE BALL GAME SUNDAY

Crowd on Hand Sizes up Teams—Players Contracts Returnable May 5

Fur coats and woolen mittens, to say nothing of ear laps and overshoes were much in demand yesterday afternoon when the Athletics lined up for a practice game at the Association grounds. Each player was kept busy blowing on his fingers and stamping his feet or watching the hot ones that were availed his way. As a consequence many errors were the rule. Two teams were chosen from the recruits and vets trying for the team while a change was frequently made in the pitching department as well as the receiving end. Al Victor started the game on the mound while "Shinguard" Gavin handled the big mit. Before the old heads really got their bearings the youngsters had slipped over three runs on bingles by V. Roderick, Hitt and Giles. This, however, was the end of the scoring, for the vets settled down and played in mid-season form.

Erickson, Cook and Victor were the run getters for the spavs while all took a healthy swing at the pill. Hitt who occupied the mound for the second team showed good form and with a little more experience should earn a permanent berth on the pitching staff.

Rich Bush was delegated to the mound the last half of the game and showed great improvement over his worst of last season. Roderick handled the receiving end in good shape and timed his pegs to second so as to cut off several runners.

Oscar Kannenberg flung the sphere for the vets the last half and burned a few hot ones across the plate that kept the old timers guessing.

Swedie Erickson, who occupied the second station, showed up well and with a little more coaching should be a fixture in the infield. Benda, Parker and Sheffield who gamboled in the outer gardens had little to do other than perform the snake dance to keep warm though several high ones were smothered without much effort. Stallman and Dahl, another pair of recruits who are trying for the team, handled themselves creditably and should some of the vets fall to sign, little difficulty should be met in rearranging the line-up.

A good crowd of spectators turned out to give the team the once over while the usual number of kids were on the job to get the balls. Next Wednesday evening the first regular practice will be held when the permanent line-up will be announced. All contracts are returnable not later than May 5th.

LAND SALE IN MINNESOTA

St. Paul, May 3.—Approximately 2,000,000 acres of government lands in the Red Lake reservation district, lying north of Red Lake and south of Lake of the Woods and Rainy river, will be placed on sale May 10. The sale will be conducted under the provisions of the Volstead law, which provides that lands in the drainage districts, which are unentered or unpatented, may be sold at $125 per acre plus the usual filing fee, to pay for the ditching charges. The sales are restricted to 160-acre allotments. The lands usually are offered in forty-acre tracts, competitive bids being accepted on each tract. All bids in excess of the amount of the delinquent payment go to the government as a bonus on the land.

Large crops of timothy and clover are being raised on these lands. Flax and root crops do well. Wheat and corn do not grow well where the peat content of the soil is predominant.

Trawler Colombia Is Sunk by Tonic Torpedo Boats, Which Later Fall Victims to British Destroyers. British Destroyer Recruit Is Sunk by German Submarine.

London, May 3.—The French steamer Europe was sent to the bottom by a German submarine near Bishop's Rock, while the British steamer Fulgent was torpedoed by a German submarine off Skelling rocks. With the exception of the captain of the Fulgent the crews of both steamers were saved.

A German submarine has sunk the British torpedo boat destroyer Recruit in the North sea. Two German torpedo boats sunk the trawler Colombia, fifteen fishermen being drowned, and were in turn pursued and sunk by British destroyers. Two German officers and forty-four men were rescued by the destroyers.

The British trawler Barados has arrived at Yarmouth after an engagement with a German torpedo boat, in which both craft were hit. The captain of the trawler turned his two small guns on the torpedo boat when the latter attempted his capture.

The sale will be conducted under the provisions of the Volstead law, which provides that lands in the drainage districts, which are unentered or unpatented, may be sold at $1.25 per acre plus the usual filing fee, to pay for the ditching charges.

The sales are restricted to 160-acre allotments. The lands usually are offered in forty-acre tracts, competitive bids being accepted on each tract. All bids in excess of the amount of the delinquent payment go to the government as a bonus on the land.

Large crops of timothy and clover are being raised on these lands. Flax and root crops do well. Wheat and corn do not grow well where the peat content of the soil is predominant.

LAEMMLE, FILM MAN

Is Called 'the Little Napoleon of the Moving Pictures.'

Universal City, California, the Latest Monument to His Talent—Town Is Peopled by Movie Men and Women.

Carl Laemmle, the founder of Universal City, has done much toward the advancement of moving pictures. Those who have come in contact with him know what a great leader he is.

This "Little Napoleon of the moving pictures," as his friends call him, arrived in America twenty-nine years ago in steerage without money and ignorant of the language and customs of this country. Beginning as errand boy, he rose through various employments to the management of a large retail clothing store in Oshkosh, Wisconsin. His great virtue was for saving what he earned.

With the ambition of youth he always longed for something bigger and better and was ever on the lookout for an opportunity. He dropped into a moving picture theater in Chicago when that popular pastime was being introduced to the amusement seeking public. He became interested and believed that it was the opportunity he was seeking and made up his mind to enter the field as an exhibitor. Mainly on his nerve, for he had small capital, he opened a theater in Chicago in a desirable locality and it proved successful from the moment the doors were thrown open. A month later he had another theater in profitable operation. Then he branched out into the renting end of the business, which required that he buy a stock of film. This grew very rapidly and within three months the first Laemmle Film Service was incorporated.

With the development of the moving picture business there came into existence a combination of manufacturers who, basing their contentions on patent rights, endeavored to keep others from manufacturing moving pictures. This combination of ten manufacturers closed the market of the United States so tightly that an independent found great difficulty to either make or market his film. However, American made goods was what the people wanted. In order to avoid buying from these manufacturers, and against the advice of his friends, who thought it would ruin him, he organized the Imp Films Co. It was a rather difficult task that Mr. Laemmle picked out for himself, for back of the manufacturers of the combination was unlimited capital, and the talent and ingenuity such resources can command. On his side were only his confidence and ability and certainty of the feasibility of this plan, which was shared by few of those who would profit most from its success.

The first picture that Mr. Laemmle put on the market was a big success. It was one of the best pictures ever flashed upon the screen up to that time.

The brand of film turned out by Mr. Laemmle was a success from the very outset. However, a contending factor arose in the shape of an injunction issued by the supreme court in favor of the combination, restraining him from using the best cameras which were then available. In order to avoid any legal entanglements Mr. Laemmle took his companies to Cuba and continued making the same quality of film he produced in New York city. Later he was instrumental in bringing about the amalgamation of the leading independent companies, and in 1912 became president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company.

One of the first accomplishments of this company was the establishment of a large ranch in Los Angeles for the production of moving pictures. This ranch grew to such enormous proportions that it was finally conceived and decided by Mr. Laemmle to erect a city devoted exclusively to the making of pictures.

The population of Universal City is composed entirely of moving picture people. The mayor, chief of police and all city officials are chosen from among them. There are writers, directors, players, mechanics, carpenters, property men and other workmen, a small army of trained soldiers, cowboys, Indians and hundreds of extra people. Plays of every description are produced there and sent to all parts of the globe.

Making of Moving Pictures

Remarkable Tangiers Street Scene, Built for the Terence O'Rourke Picture at Universal City.

The very first step in the making of a photoplay is the writing of the story which is known as a scenario. This scenario is a complete outline of the entire picture consisting of the cast of characters, a brief story and a description of the scenes. The manuscripts are read carefully by the scenario editor, and the available 1 per cent are kept, the others returned at once to the authors. Most of the manufacturers at the present time have a scenario department and these writers supply the majority of the scripts that the companies use.

After the manuscript is decided upon, it is then turned over to the producer who puts it in final shape for production. He makes a list of all the properties needed and arranges for costumes. Many companies after purchasing a script turn it over to their own scenario writers to put in shape. Rarely is an outsider's scenario in proper condition to be produced.

The Moving Picture Stage.

The stage is the next step to be considered. The modern studio stage for the production of moving pictures far surpasses its counterpart, the legitimate stage, in its equipment for elaborately staged productions. In Universal City some of the largest stages in the world have been built. The interior studio, where pictures are taken in rainy weather, at night or on cloudy days is equipped with an artificial lighting system. The lights are placed overhead and at all sides, throwing a powerful glare on the scene. When all the lights are going, nearly three hundred in number, the candlepower exceeds ten thousand. In addition to these there are also Aristo arc lights used to produce different effects. This studio alone is 180 feet long and 60 feet wide.

The largest moving picture exterior stage in the world, accommodating twenty sets, or scenes, has been built hearsal several times until the players are entirely conversant with the situations and action. The camera is then put into action and the scene is photographed upon a long strip of sensitized film. This film comes in reels of from two hundred to four hundred feet. Before using, the film is perforated by machines that are marvels of accuracy and speed, each one turning out about five thousand feet per day.

Developing the Film.

After all the scenes of a picture have been made, the film is turned over to the developing department and there the invisible image takes definite form and the first results are seen. After development the film is thoroughly washed and dried and the sections given en to the producer who made the picture. Then comes the tedious work of assembling the different sections. After this is done the negative is turned over to the printing department and then, for the first time, the picture is ready to be thrown upon the screen. Many changes are often made in the picture before it is ready for the public, as it is the producer's big ambition to make

Building Built for and Used in "The Inn of the Winged God."

Street Set at Universal City to Represent Lucknow in "The Campbells Are Coming."

In Universal City. This means that scenes for twenty pictures can be put on at one time, providing, of course, the sun is shining.

The Scenes.

The scene occupies but a small space on the studio floor, ranging from twelve feet in width to forty or fifty. As a rule, the camera is brought within a few feet of the principals in the scene, in order that their features and expressions may be clearly shown. On either side of the stage lines are laid which run in a V shape coming together at the camera. The actors while playing for the scene must keep within these lines. To go beyond them is to vanish from the scene, and the director may be continually heard above the roar of other sounds, instructing the players to keep inside of the lines.

From morning to night, during the rainy season, the interior studio rings with the noise of the busy stage carpenters striking this set or that or erecting new ones. Beautiful rooms spring up as if by magic and are pulled down, giving way to perhaps a squalid set typical of the poverty stricken home.

The carpenter shop is a room as large as the studio itself. Thirty-two men are regularly employed here who are experts in their line. They are continually building or erecting scenes for the interior and exterior stages.

Photographing the Scenes.

Before the camera is turned upon the set, the director of the picture explains to the players the action of the scene. This is gone through in rehearsal.

his product as near perfect as possible.

This but briefly outlines the things that must be done in order to make a picture. These in fact are the big items. There are hundreds of other details, the small things which are indispensable. However, in order to appreciate and thoroughly comprehend just what goes into making a picture it must be actually viewed. Also the vast amount of furniture and property of various kinds that must be kept on hand.

Every piece of furniture in every house in the Universal City is the property of the Universal company. They have made an effort to furnish each house differently, so that if a certain piece of furniture of a particular pattern would be required it would be on hand. A record is kept of just where the different kinds of furnishings are to be found.

For the thousands of visitors to Universal City there are going to be many revelations, there are going to be many surprises. While they may have taken a keen interest in pictures in the past, the pictures they will see after their visit will be all the more interesting as they will know just how they are taken. They will also have become acquainted with the people whom they have seen so often on the screen. They will take a greater delight in the acting done by these people as they will then be watching the work of personal acquaintances and not merely sight acquaintances as formerly.

DEFENDS AMERICAN GUNS

Secretary Daniels Says Naval Ordnance Is World's Best.

Washington, May 3.—Critics, who claim the American navy's 14-inch rifles are inferior to the 15-inch type mounted on the British battleship Queen Elizabeth, were answered in a statement issued by Secretary Daniels, declaring that the bureau of ordnance has developed a 14-inch gun "that will shoot farther, shoot straighter and hit harder than any gun now in use or known to be designed by a foreign country."

While conceding that the Queen Elizabeth's guns throw a larger shell Mr. Daniels points out that she carries only eight of the 15-inch rifles, compared with a main battery of twelve 14-inch weapons on the United States battleship Pennsylvania.

CANAL MAKES NO PROFIT
Panama Waterway Earns $2,334,515 in Eight Months.
Panama, May 3.—The first eight months' operation of the Panama canal have not yielded a profit to the government, notwithstanding that traffic has been better than had been expected in view of the European war. From July 1, 1914, until March 1, 1915, the canal showed a loss of $216,098, the deficit being mainly chargeable to the high cost of operation and maintenance.
During the period mentioned the canal earned $2,334,515 in tolls, while the charge for operation and maintenance was $2,595,613, the government losing thus approximately 10 per cent. Under operation and maintenance are included all the diversified expenditures necessary for keeping the canal open to traffic and a prorated part of the expense on civil government, sanitation and general administration.
More than a third of the total overhead expense of the canal is charged to operation and maintenance.

William Faversham

Famous Actor, says:

"A pipe of Tuxedo keeps me feeling physically fit and in good spirits, and, because it is mild and doesn't bite, it is pleasant to the throat and keeps my voice in good tone."

William Faversham

Tuxedo Keeps You Physically Fit

Every playgoer has remarked the virility and clean-cut vigor of William Faversham, both as an actor and as a man. No matter what part he is playing, he always presents a figure of alert strength and keen wits. His voice is especially engaging, clear, carrying and sonorous.

For Tuxedo tobacco to gain a testimonial from such a man, stating that it helps to keep him "physically fit and in good spirits" and keeps his voice "in good tone" goes far toward convincing you of Tuxedo's wholesome, all-round value to you.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo will put snap and vim into your daily work. It's an inspiring tobacco that will keep you fit as a fiddle, full of zest, hearty and happy and hale. You can smoke it all day long, and each succeeding pipeful will glow with greater cheer.

The original, exclusive "Tuxedo Process" has many imitators—but no equal.

Try Tuxedo for a week, and you'll like it forever.

CANAL MAKES NO PROFIT

Panama Waterway Earns $2,334,515 in Eight Months.

Panama, May 3.—The first eight months' operation of the Panama canal have not yielded a profit to the government, notwithstanding that traffic has been better than had been expected in view of the European war. From July 1, 1914, until March 1, 1915, the canal showed a loss of $216,098, the deficit being mainly chargeable to the high cost of operation and maintenance.

During the period mentioned the canal earned $2,334,515 in tolls, while the charge for operation and maintenance was $2,550,613, the government losing thus approximately 10 per cent. Under operation and maintenance are included all the diversified expenditures necessary for keeping the canal open to traffic and a prorated part of the expense on civil government, sanitation and general administration.

More than a third of the total overhead expense of the canal is charged to operation and maintenance.
